"EDR, Death Registration and Vital Records"

When the SSN "fails" for any reason and you believe all of the information is correct, you may register the EDR record. "Fail" simply means that the information on the SSA database does not match exactly. A "fail" also means that you will need to report the death via the SSA-721 form to SSA, as the EDR system is unable to report a failed SSN. *

- True
- False

Which of the following scenarios are examples of valid reasons to abandon an EDR death record: *

1 point

- Doctor refuses to sign drop-to-paper and funeral home then uses a redline death certificate.
- Record started under incorrect funeral home.
- Family went to another funeral home (the record cannot be transferred).
- Upon saving, a pop-up message stating this is a "Duplicate Record" (meaning another user ~ hospital, coroner or funeral home ~ has started the record in EDR and yours may be a duplicate). If the duplication is confirmed, the duplicate record is abandoned.
- All of the Above

In order to search and print a disposition permit after registering an EDR death record, go into the EDR system under the Registration drop down menu and chose which one of the following: *
